Children Compete In Kids Library Olympics

About 15 local elementary school-age children participated in the Kids Library Olympics held March 22 at the New Haven School on Main Avenue. The games were sponsored by the New Haven Regional Library and were grouped by teams. Each team consisted of two partners and they competed against others in cross country skiing, curling, and tent racing.

Torch-like treats were created using ice cream cones filled with Cheetos flames. A gold medal time was had by all who attended, "said Jenny Peterson. "All left with medals around their necks and Olympic torches held high."
